

Background on the Bench-Bar Coalition

In 1993, under the leadership of the California Association of Local Bars (CALB), the State Bar of California, and the Judicial Council, a statewide Bench-Bar Coalition (BBC) was formed to enhance communication and coordinate the activities of the judicial community with the state, local, and specialty bars on issues of common interest—particularly in the legislative arena. Securing adequate, dependable, and stable funding for the trial courts has been a primary focus for the BBC. BBC membership includes judges and the presidents, past presidents, presidents-elect, executive directors, or other person(s) designated by the president, of a state, local, minority or specialty bar association; legal services organization; or statewide organization dedicated to improving the justice system.

The BBC is currently co-chaired by Miriam Krinsky, executive director of the Children's Law Center of Los Angeles, and Anthony Capozzi of Capozzi Law Offices, Fresno, immediate past president of the State Bar of California. The co-chairs lead conference-call meetings of the coalition to share information.

In addition to its conference calls, the BBC holds meetings in conjunction with those of CALB and the State Bar. The statewide Bench-Bar Coalition also participates in a Day in Sacramento, in which small groups of judges and bar leaders meet with legislators to discuss issues of mutual interest, with emphasis on the judicial branch budget. Judicial Council members and leaders of special commissions and task forces also are invited to participate in this event. Up to 50 BBC members attend the Day in Sacramento activities, which are coordinated by the Administrative Office of the Courts' (AOC) Office of Governmental Affairs.

Among the benefits derived from the coalition has been the development of strong working relationships and better communication between the judiciary and members of the bar, as well as enhanced advocacy efforts with the Legislature. Subject areas of joint interest include the judicial branch budget and the need for stable, adequate funding; access to justice; jury system improvement; alternative dispute resolution; court technology; new judgeships; and judges' compensation. The bar has kept the coalition informed about issues important to the Commission on Equal Access to Justice and the State Bar.
